— 1920 Wickham Net Shed —
Developed by Lewis Wickham, built to store fishnets. The Wickham and his family owned the shed until 1991 when it was donated to the community and is now a museum.

1923 Federal Building
Built to house the Customs House, Post Office, and other government offices. It was the first building in Bamfield to have a telephone exchange.

1924 Bamfield General Store
Built by Charles Wickham, owner of the Wickham Net Shed. It was the first general store in Bamfield and was used for many years.

— 1907 Lifebloat Station —
Built to provide a place for the community to store their fish. It was the first building in Bamfield to have a telephone exchange.

— 1923 Jennings Store —
Built by Jennings, it was the first store in Bamfield to have a telephone exchange.

Bamfield's Historic Harbour

A project of the Bamfield Historical Society

From here you can see the vibrant heart of west Bamfield, the mail boat's first stop. The buildings have been continually repurposed to accommodate the community's changing needs.

Surprises - 1

- Half the trip in Canada -- cell phone expense
- Less than half the trip with internet access, blogging was difficult
- How good BoatUS was with the outdrive damage – paid $7K repair with ease.
- $150/yr. BoatUS towing paid off
- Comparison between Canada and US canal systems
- Met very few “Loopers”: we started too late and traveled too fast.

Surprises - 2

- Did not need radar for this trip.
- Used mostly marinas to power AC – w/o good generator setup
- Prepped in VA Marina with no security and many immovable boats with owners that frequented there – cheap, social “beach house” community
- 8 ft Dinghy with electric trolling motor was good compromise.
- Only used the folding bikes 1 time on Mackinaw Island. Mostly due to pace of trip.
